To Help Children to be Successful in School

Starting a new year can be a little scary and intimidating for children of all ages. Listed below are a few things that as parents you can do to help them to have a successful year.

- ◆ Become Familiar with school. Meet your child's teacher (s) and get to know them. Go to open house and parent-teacher conferences . Participate in school functions. This will help you to meet other parents.
- ◆ Support classroom learning at home. Make sure homework is done and check over. Help your child to prepare for test. Create a time and place for homework to be done everyday and stick to the schedule.
- ◆ Make a home for everything. Organization and routines are very important because they provide security for the children. They know what to expect. Have a time to check bookbag and sort papers. Hang a "super-star" paper on the refrigerator (this builds confidence, shows support, and importance of a job well done), lunch box goes to the kitchen for the next day, shoes put in place, etc.
- ◆ As a family, eat one meal together daily. This will provide a neutral time to have conversations, ask questions, and most important listen to what your child is saying. Everyone should be involved in sharing about their day. Ask open-ended questions (questions that can't be answered with a yes or no) to promote discussions.
- ◆ Most important—remember learning is a process and that it doesn't happen without making mistakes. When these happen, help your child to understand that this is part of the process of learning and to adjust, practice, and tackle each new skill with confidence. Soon this to will be easy and they will be ready to move to the next challenge.
- ◆ Get your kids involved in at least one extra activity. This gives them a chance to interact with others, learn team work, and burn off some of the energy they always seem to have.
